Eagerly watching
Waiting for thee
Looks the lone maiden
O'er the dark sea
Soon as thou shinest
Soft on the air,
Borne by the light breeze
Floateth her prayer
Watch o'er him kindly,
Home, from afar
Light thou his pathway

GORDON'S NEW SCHOOL FOR THE PIANO-FORTE

is the result of many years' experience as to the requirements of the best practical teachers of the present time.

In the year 1853, Nathan Richardson, a young music teacher just starting in the profession in Boston, published a "Modern School for the Piano-forte." The work met with considerable success, being largely the result of the recent instructions of the young man's German tutors, Dreyschock and others.

Experienced musicians and teachers soon found that while the work contained much valuable material, it was far from perfect in its construction and arrangement.

In the year 1859, Mr. Richardson made another attempt, and brought out his "Richardson's New Method." Being still a young man, the six years intervening between this and his first publication seemed to give but little additional experience, although by persistent and very extensive advertising the work was pushed before the public.

Mr. Richardson lived only long enough to complete and publish the work. His death occurring very shortly after its appearance, there was no opportunity for his remedying the glaring imperfections which still naturally appeared in the work of so young a man.

His original work, the "Modern School," however, has undergone a number of valuable revisions, keeping it constantly up with the times.

In 1860, one year after the appearance of the "New Method," the "Modern School" was thoroughly revised by a well known musician of large and practical experience, under the title of which, together with the original work, was purchased, plates and all rights, by S. T. GORDON, who, still finding room for improvement and advance, in 1870 eliminated such material as had become obsolete, added new material, made the work more progressive, and gave to the public one of the most popular Piano-forte Schools ever issued in America, i. e.,

"New Modern School for the Piano-forte,"

"Gordon's Enlarged Richardson."

Thus it will be seen that by constantly keeping pace with the times, the present work, "GORDON'S NEW SCHOOL," brought out twelve years later than "Gordon's Richardson," and TWENTY-THREE YEARS later than "The New Method," containing all the valuable material added in 1870, together with the very best matter as suited to the present requirements of the age, is entirely free from the tedious and "old fashioned" style of a past generation.

claims the favorable attention and use of both professors and pupils for the following reasons:

1. The fullness with which the Rudiments are treated.
2. The simple and progressive exercises following:
3. It contains Amusements and Recreations, illustrating the style of each exercise.
4. It contains many four hand exercises for teacher and pupil, in the practice of which the pupil will early acquire the habit of observing correct time.
5. Twelve Etudes, with their Scales, giving practical illustration of their use in various forms.
6. The Scales are given in every variety of form. It may be safely said that the Scales have never as yet been issued in this country in the complete and systematic manner found in this work.
7. Embellishments are fully treated in eighteen elegant studies.
8. There are many excellent selections in every style of playing, all from the very best authors.
9. The elements of Musical Composition, thorough Bass, Modulations, &c., &c., are given in simple, practical form.

In fact every subject useful to the musician, from the beginner to the most advanced student, will be found in this work treated in a concise yet exhaustive manner.

"GORDON'S NEW SCHOOL"

contains 288 pages, embracing all the principles of the most thorough Piano-forte instruction books, whether foreign or American, and is the most progressive and complete work published.

It will be found to contain the handsomest and most elegant typography, and to be free from errors.

It has been gotten up without regard to expense, and in the best manner in every particular. Every plate is new, made from new type, hence the printing will be found clearer and far superior to any that can be obtained from old and worn plates which have done a score of years' service.

We invite careful attention to every department of this work. It has not been hastily prepared—notwithstanding the urgent demand for a work of this kind its publication has been delayed many months in order that careful revision should make it all that we claim it to be, i. e., a
